A software package that mimics assembly floor hand-off patterns & real-time sequnetial decision making capcbilities to acurately generate, visualize & replay assembly scenarios. In addition to the assembly simulator, the sotware package also utilizes a modified genetic algorithm to optimize assembly order for things like completion time and robot utilization. The simulation package utilizes a unidirectional, flux-based data propigation pattern that ensures predictable state mutation to avoid race-conditions and allow for replay behavior. All code written in Typescript and compiled to be run both in browser and Node environments.
